

Terms of Service at Hide-My-Email.info

Welcome to Hide-My-Email.info. Before using the service, please read these terms carefully.

1. Scope of Service

1. Hide-My-Email.info is available as a web service. You need to have access to a modern web browser like Brave, Opera, Edge, Firefox, Chrome, and similar to use it. Availability for download, in app stores and in third-party libraries are announced through our service announcements.
2. The service enables users to create anonymous aliases connected to their real email address to support private two-way communication.
3. Service features and limits depend on the selected account type and active add-ons.
4. Service use is also governed by our Acceptable Use Policy (<https://hide-my-email.info/acceptable-use-policy>).

2. Account Plans and Service Periods

1. Account plans are offered for fixed service periods: 30 days, 90 days, 180 days, and 365 days.
2. Each plan includes a defined pool of messages and a defined set of features available during the purchased period.
3. The service period starts when a paid order is activated for the account.
4. If you buy another plan while an earlier plan is still active, the new paid order remains queued and activates automatically after no older active plan remains on the account.
5. Message limits and related usage statistics are counted in consecutive 30-day periods starting from plan activation.
6. Unused account features and/or message limits do not carry over beyond the period to which they were assigned. See How Limits Work (<https://Hide-My-Email.info/how-limits-work>).
7. To prevent abuse, after deleting an alias, e-mails sent to that alias may still be forwarded to the user for the next 30 days and still consume message limits. After this period, messages addressed to the deleted alias are rejected and treated as no-recipient deliveries.
